Campus Chooses Sheri As Homecoming Queen

Santa Ana College's Golden Homecoming has come and gone, and it almost slipped by unnoticed, according to the general feeling of disappointment in the Friday night dance.

Homecoming Queen Sheri Maxwell felt that "there should have been more participation by the students concerning their homecoming. More people would have made the dance more successful."

Miss Maxwell was elected Homecoming Queen by SAC's Associated Students Wednesday, and the result was kept secret until Friday night at the dance. Miss Maxwell was sponsored by the Greeks service club.

PRINCESSES

Homecoming princesses were Hilda Saager, Knights' candidate; Jan Engisch, Newman Club; Sharon McCowen, Las Hidas; and Gail Henderson, Circle K.

Despite general dissatisfaction, sophomore Trent Kutch said, "The dance was successful. There were more people than attended the last dance and many alumni returned."

Returning alumni included Greg Enriquez, past SAC yell-leader and founder of the Knights, who is now majoring in education at California State College at Fullerton, where he is rallies commissioner.

'62 QUEEN

Nineteen sixty-two Homecoming Queen Wanda Dorman, now attending Long Beach State College, and past flag twirler Pam Randall, also attended.

Leading the cheers at the Saturday night game were past yell leaders Dorothy Dobson, 1963 rallies commissioner, and Carole Bouchard, former ASB secretary and 1963 vice-president.

Joining Homecoming activities were past student body presidents Dan Weaver, now at UCLA majoring in political science, and treasurer in his residence hall; Allan Comp, education major at Fullerton State College; and Gary Bridge, political science major at UCLA, who went to India this summer on a scholarship.

"GO-GOS"

The prime cause of complaint at the dance was the surf band the "Go-Gos."

According to sophomore Chuck Campbell, "The dance was crummy! It was the worst 'band' I've ever heard!"

Young Democrats President Jerry Burns remarked, "The people planning the dance should have taken into consideration the type of dance it was and should have chosen the band accordingly."

When ASSAC President Tom Wilson was asked what he thought of the "Go-Gos" he re-

Students Need Parking Policy

Santa Ana College students are in need of a "good neighbor policy," according to Dean of Students Thomas Trawick.

Dean Trawick told El Don there is a problem involving off-campus parking. "Some students tend to forget they are parking on a street where families live," he explained.

"Such ill-behavior as blocking driveways, throwing trash and racing while children are at play doesn't endear collegiates to their neighbors," said Trawick.

People who live on the south side of the campus came to the administration rather than the Santa Ana Police for help, according to Trawick. They had one person call the college as a representative for the group of homeowners.

"This in itself shows their willingness to give us a chance to cooperate with them in clearing up the problem," said Trawick.

"As college students, we have a responsibility to our community. If we want good neighbors, we should try to be good neighbors. We need people on our side," he continued.

"If the problem does not cease, the end result will be a police patrol," stated Trawick.

"But it need not reach this stage, for the solution is a simple one," he continued. "Drive courteously and safely, don't throw trash and be a good neighbor."

College Players Reveal 'A Far Country' Tonight

Drama enthusiasts will travel to "A Far Country" tonight at 8 in Phillips Hall, as curtains open on Santa Ana College Players' second dramatic offering of the fall semester.

"A Far Country," by Henry Denker, is a play based on actual events from the life of Austrian physician Sigmund Freud, the founder of psychoanalysis, who is known as the "psychological geographer who first mapped the subconscious world."

The play will also be dramatized tomorrow night and next Friday and Saturday night.

David Vincent portrays Freud, the maverick doctor who realizes that physical trauma, unexplained by bodily injury, is the conversion of an anxiety into an ailment that allows the person to avoid or reduce that anxiety.

Susan Gustaffson plays Elizabeth Von Ritter, a beautiful girl who is paralyzed and determined to stay that way.

Through a process of self-revelations, the patient learns of her anxiety, a guilt complex, and the disorder is dissolved.

Supporting players include Linda Kass as Martha, Freud's loving wife; Georgia Alleman, Amalie Freud, the nagging mother; and Joe Kawaja as Dr. Joseph Bueuer, Freud's close friend, torn between a desire for security and the demands of his conscience.

Other cast members include Sara Sissons, Dolfe Freud; Mark Byrd, Gordon Douglas; Tim Mills, Frederick Wohlmuth; Pamela McLain, Kathy; and Fred Schrock, as the Nazi.

SAC drama instructors Lee Ford and Robert Blaustone are directors.

Student admission is free tonight and 50 cents with Associated Students Cards for additional performances. Other tickets are $1.00.

College Senate Hears Senator-Elect Schmitz

"The future political leaders are here," stated State Senator-elect John Schmitz, philosophy instructor at Santa Ana College, to the SAC Senate Tuesday.

Referring to the philosophies of Plato, Edmund Burke and Benjamin Franklin, Schmitz noted, "Participation of the people is the key to the success of the republic. The people 'can change the world.'"

EXPERIENCE

Experience in student government developed Schmitz's drive and motivation. "If I hadn't participated, I wouldn't be where I am now," remarked Schmitz.

Schmitz encouraged the Senate to keep up the good work. "You must put your head down and run as hard as you can," concluded Schmitz.

NEW SENATOR

Chris Emerson, who is active in SAC's Young Republican club, was seated as Senator after the Senate approved her appointment by Tom Wilson, Associated Students President.

Ben Fox, president of the Greeks, was appointed chairman of the Bill of Rights committee. Fox was nominated by Ernest Crain, political science instructor, and advisor to the Bill of Rights committee, and received the senate's unanimous approval.

Senate Bills No. 27, Halftime Basketball Games; No. 28, Award Presentation to Ed Caruthers and No. 29, Rec Night; were channeled to the Rules Committee for further investigation.

SAC's Leaders Meet the Press

El Don and the Associated Students of Santa Ana College will have an open press conference Monday at 4 p.m. in seminar 11.

ASSAC President Tom Wilson slated the conference after a similar one last Monday.

According to Wilson, the purpose of the press conference is to air out problems that arise between student newspaper and student government.

Topics for discussion include relationships between students and reporters, news coverage of campus events, weighing the importance of events in regards to quantity of coverage and the role of the campus newspaper.

All students are urged to attend the conference, said Wilson.

OPENING NIGHT — David Vincent, Georgia Alleman (center) and Sara Sissons rehearse for tonight's 8:00 opening of "A Far Country." The play will also be given tomorrow night and Nov. 20-21 in Phillips Hall. (El Don Photo)

COEDS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Santa Ana College's four women's service clubs, Las Damitas, Las Gitanas, Las Hidas and Las Meninas will sponsor an open house in the student union this Sunday from 3-5 p.m.

Interested freshman and sophomore women students will have an opportunity "to meet club members, and to find out what each organization is like," according to Patti Amthor, Associated Women Students service chairman.

Applications for membership in the various clubs will be accepted at the open house.

Miss Amthor said the event was scheduled to give more interesting coeds a chance to become members in the clubs.

As We See It

(EDITORIAL ANALYSIS)

'Thanks' From El Don

El Don is grateful for the many compliments we received this week for our Nov. 6 special golden anniversary homecoming edition.

We worked hard to produce a six-page newspaper in the time it normally takes to put out four pages. For many El Don staffers, it was their first experience with the hectic pressures of meeting deadlines.

El Don feels, however, that there was another job well done which remained unnoticed.

Publishing a six-page edition called for folding and inserting an extra page. El Don staffers looked with weary eyes at the 2500 editions when they arrived on campus last Friday.

Suddenly, a whirlwind of energy swept through the news room door and in less than an hour El Don was folded, pages inserted and neatly stacked.

What happened? It was the Greeks, Santa Ana College's newest service club.

Not only did they pitch in and help prepare the newspapers, but they distributed them on campus too.

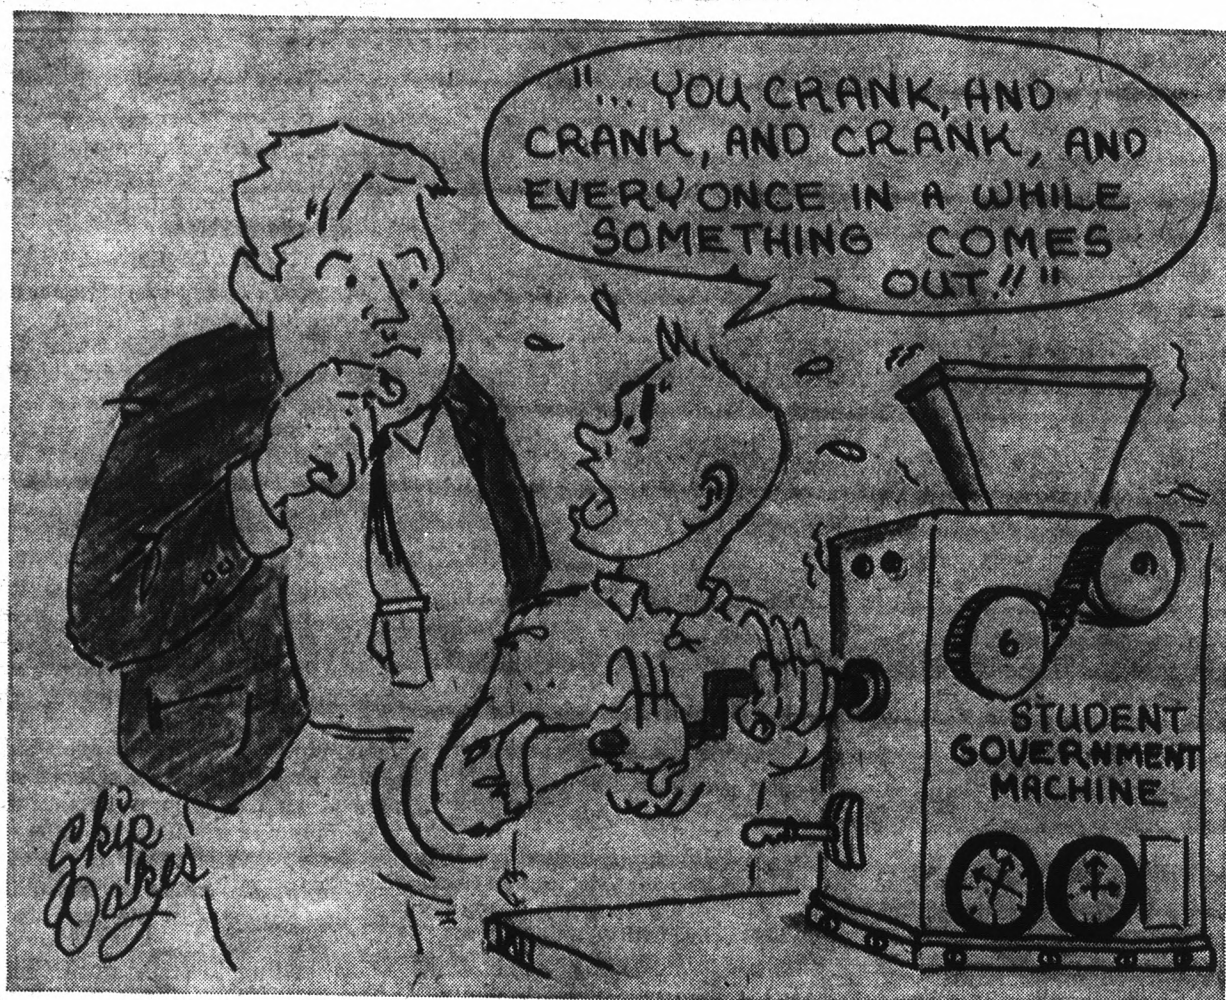

El Don extends sincere thanks to the men who displayed a willingness to serve the campus in this small way.

Additional Greek activities should not go unpublicized at this time.

Who put up the last minute decorations for the Day of the Don carnival and dance last month? Who sold football programs and ushered at campus events? Who set up information tables for Orientation Day? Who created enthusiasm and spirit by attending and actively participating in all campus activities? Who else but the Greeks?

The honorary service club's active interest in college activities is reflected in its record. The Greeks have lost only one major election since the club was formed in 1962.

Following their motto, "through unity we achieve," the Greeks have established high esteem for themselves. "Thanks again," from El Don.

Coed Gets Into Ship-shape; Plans To Develop Sea Legs

By KAREN HESS
El Don Staff Writer

Blow ye winds, heigh ho! A sailing she shall go!

Would you like to travel through France, Spain, Egypt, India and Japan and get college credits at the same time?

Judy Aspinall, a Santa Ana College freshman, will be doing just that as a student in the University of the Seven Seas.

Miss Aspinall was recently selected to attend the 1965 fall semester at the mobile university, according to a letter to El Don from the University's Director of Admissions, Don Amundson.

Miss Aspinall, who is majoring in elementary education at SAC, will leave from New York this fall. After the semester has ended, she will return to San Diego sometime next spring.

Students attending the University travel on the M.S. Seven Seas, a ship modified to serve as a university.

The University has a threefold aim. First, it enables students to study the earth and its people by observation. Second, it seeks to improve international understanding through education. Third, it stimulates the building of individual responsibility in the students.

As a member of the American Field Service Club at Santa Ana High School, Miss Aspinall first learned of the sea-going students.

Her parents, active on the American Field Service Executive Council, obtained additional details about the program.

Comparative courses are offered in education, health, art, current events, dancing and folklore of the Mediterranean and the Far East.

College level courses in English, languages and marine biology may also be taken, according to Miss Aspinall.

After one semester at the University of the Seven Seas, where she will take the comparative education course, Miss Aspinall plans to return to Santa Ana College to complete her sophomore year.

All of the students who have attended the University have returned with glowing reports of the program's benefits, according to Miss Aspinall, who anticipates her future experience with growing enthusiasm.

"I feel it will be of great value to me to meet the people and see the conditions in the countries I will be visiting," she stated.

"I hope to crystalize the ideas I have gained through reading history by seeing the things I have read about."

"It may help get rid of some of the false ideas I have about other countries, like Egypt being all sand and Pyramids," Miss Aspinall concluded.

Reservations are still open, according to Amundson, and they are now accepting students for the Spring semester.

All requests for information or enrollment should be directed to University of Seven Seas, Whittier, California.

Queen Sheri Learned Students Are Sincere

By MIKE FANCHER
El Don Staff Writer

"You can never underestimate the friendliness and sincerity of people."

This is what Queen Sheri Maxwell learned during Santa Ana College's 50th anniversary homecoming.

For Miss Maxwell, homecoming began three weeks before the activities started, when Carl Bryant, a member of the Greeks, told her that his club wanted her as its queen candidate. From then on it was a trying but rewarding race.

The first of many interesting happenings occurred the day before the candidates were to be presented to SAC students during the talent assembly in Phillips Hall. Queen Sheri somehow walked into a door and broke her toe.

This might have panicked some coeds, but not Miss Maxwell. "I begged the doctor not to put a cast on, and he said he wouldn't if I stayed on crutches for three weeks. I practiced all night Wednesday so I wouldn't have to use the crutches on stage. My foot was still swollen, and I had to wear a slipper the next day."

From there the Greeks took over. The 19-year-old coed, who moved to Santa Ana from Antelope Valley in 1962, praised the service club highly saying, "They put in a great deal of time, work, and enthusiasm, and they gave me a lot of encouragement. Their imagination won the Homecoming."

La Noche de Oro, the Homecoming dance and coronation, was the highlight of the activities. "My mind was blank just before they made the announcement," she recalls. "Jan Engisch and I were the only ones left in the room, and I was sure she had won."

"When I found out it wasn't Jan, I started to cry and the first thing I said was 'I can't go out there like this.'"

Moments later Kathy Cook, last year's Homecoming Queen, placed the crown on the new reigning beauty, but not without the usual problems.

Miss Maxwell, who wore a bouffant hairdo, remembers, "I was standing there and I didn't know the crown was on until it started to slip."

Contrary to what many people might think, the new queen's worries were not over by any means. It seems she had her dress made-to-order, but the train in back was a little longer than planned.

"Everyone told me to hold it up so I wouldn't trip, but I was holding the flowers and couldn't. I thought my heel would stick in the ground or something," she admitted.

She feels her responsibility as queen is to "uphold the standards set by previous queens, the standards the students expect and the standards of the college."

NEWS BRIEFS

Alpha Gamma Sigma, California State Honorary Scholastic Society's club officers Bill Campbell, president; Kenneth Hill, vice president; Marilyn Youel, secretary; and Randy Beaton, treasurer, will accompany advisor Jay Davis to the Southern California Conference Nov. 21 in Barstow.

Discussions on Civil Rights, the merits of television, the John Birch Society, and science will highlight the conference.

Also on the agenda is a tour of the Goldstone Deep Space Tracking Station, according to Davis.

All chess players are invited to attend a Chess Club meeting next Thursday in seminar 11, according to adviser Thomas Wright.

The club, open to all persons interested in learning or playing chess, usually meets in the student lounge to play chess for entertainment and tournament.

The purpose of this meeting is to sign up new members, said Wright. Earlier attempts to form the club failed this semester due to lack of participants.

Associated Men Students President Ed LeSaout reminded students today that the Man of the Month for October will be announced at next Tuesday's Senate meeting, 12 noon in seminar 11.

marked, "They could have 'went-went,' and I wouldn't have cared." (In other words nobody was too gone over them.)

Dan Wooldridge, finance commissioner, suggested, "The dance should have been held someplace nicer than the student union. With this and better publicity, there might have been more alumni."

Miss Maxwell contested this by saying, "It's traditional to hold the Homecoming dance at the school."

The dance reached its climax when last year's queen Kathy Cook placed her crown on newly elected Queen Sheri's head (see story, page two.)

This final announcement ended weeks of exhausting campaigning by campus clubs and their queen hopefuls.

At the half-time programs during the game, the queen and her court were presented to SAC's students and alumni.

During the game, the royal court and their families occupied a special box on the 50-yard line.

Plans, decorations, and publicity for SAC's 50th anniversary were handled by campus clubs through the Inter-Club Council.

REPORTERS TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Six Santa Ana College journalists and department chairman Carl Venstrom left this afternoon for Beta Phi Gamma's first annual weekend convention at Los Angeles Valley College.

Beta Phi Gamma is a national journalistic co-educational fraternity. Members must work on a college publication, maintain a B average in all journalism courses and maintain a C average in all other college courses.

SAC's delegates include Jim Bailey, Carl Bryant, Pat Cone, Mike Fancher, Marlene Meyer and Candy Sattetzahn.

Four on-the-spot writing contests, designed to present professional situations, will highlight the convention.

Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, will judge the four contests, which include news story, sports story, editorial and feature story, editorial, and feature.

Delegates will also go on a two-Studios, world's largest motion picture studio, according to Venstrom.

Santa Ana's lineup might read like a war casualty list when it faces Fullerton JC tonight for first place in the Eastern Conference.

The 8 p.m. game will be played at the Fullerton Stadium and will be televised on KCOP Channel 13.

As strong as Fullerton has proven to be, the biggest Don worry this week has not been the Hornet attack per se, but whether Santa Ana will take the field in one piece.

"We're going on bandages, wire and desire," said SAC head coach Dick Gorrie Monday and Tuesday, the coach had a poor chance to see how his squad was holding up.

Chief among SAC's worries is the condition of number one quarterback Jeff Matlock. In the second quarter of the San Bernardino game, Matlock pulled a ligament and had to miss the whole second half.

"We have him on a strict schedule, but these things are unpredictable. A lot depends on how fast he heals," explained Gorrie.

DAVIS SPARKLES

Mike Davis took over for Matlock and came through with his best performance to date. "He was throwing real good, but he still takes a bit too long to get rid of the ball," the coach observed.

"If Fullerton puts on a bigger rush than San Bernardino, we might have to try something else. One thing we are going to have to do is out-finesse them; I don't think we can out-muscle them. It would sure help if we're lucky enough to play at full strength."

LAWSON INJURED

Also ailing for SAC is its top ball carrier, fullback Jerome Lawson, who saw only limited action in the San Bernardino contest because of a bad ankle.

The 29-16 win over the Indians looks all the more remarkable when it is remembered that SAC played without the services of first string linemen Greg Hatfield, John Johnston and Gene Abernathy. End John Pitts played with a 102 degree temperature, and defensive back Fred Warren played only intermittently because of the flu.

"Our new men didn't panic," beamed Gorrie. "Fullerton has a great team; it will take our best effort to beat them. Our club has great desire going for it though, we've needed it—after all we were picked for sixth you know."

Mendoza Paces Don CC Squad

Running as Santa Ana College's number one cross-country man this year is freshman Sal Mendoza.

Mendoza came to SAC with impressive track credentials which he earned at Santa Ana High. Last year he won the Sunset League cross-country and mile championships. The high point of his career came in the CIF finals when he ran a blistering 4:15 mile to finish second to Burbank's Roy Romero who clocked in at 4:14.

He also has run the 880 with his best time being 1:56. Mendoza however insists that he preferred the mile to the half because, "If you make a mistake in the 880 you've had it. The mile is my race."

Right now Mendoza is running from eight to 12 miles a day in preparation for the Eastern Conference Meet next week. He is doing this to build up the stamina that his Coach John Ward believes he needs in order to "become a great runner."

Poloists Win Two; Nab 3rd

By MIKE FANCHER
El Don Sports Writer

Santa Ana College's water polo team was just one goal from being the best, but they settled for third place in the Southland Invitational Tourney held at SAC Monday and Tuesday.

The Dons won two of their three games in the tourney to place third, but the biggest game was their 8-7 loss to Chaffey in the semi-finals. Chaffey went on to beat Mt. San Antonio College 15-11 for the championship.

SAC's poloists won their opening match with Los Angeles City College 13-5, and their final one with top-seeded Santa Monica 8-6.

STANDOUT DONS

Larry Lefner and Rich Peters of the Dons were named to the first string all-tourney squad. Bob Christie, Santa Ana's leading scorer in the eight-team event, made the second team. Dave Gross and Terry Reish each gained honorable mention.

Today Coach Rick Rowland takes his squad to Mt. SAC for a contest with the tourney second place finishers.

A win today would set the Don's seasonal record at 10 wins and seven losses. This would break Santa Ana College's record for the most wins in one year. The standard, nine wins, was established in '63.

Coach Rowland feels the Mt. SAC game should be a good contest. He points out that although Chaffey "toyed with Mt. SAC," the Mounties will have a home pool advantage.

HOME ADVANTAGE

Rowland explains that "there is a definite advantage in playing at home. Mt. SAC's pool is 25 feet longer than ours and will take some adjusting to. When we played Chaffey earlier this year we were at a disadvantage because their pool is so narrow we couldn't run our usual breaking game. It was like playing in a cracker-box gym."

"But we're playing our best brand of polo and the Chaffey game was the best we've played all year," Rowland adds.

Distance Men Run At Coast

With the all-important Eastern Conference Meet only six days away, Santa Ana College's cross country team will compete today in the Orange Coast Invitational.

Runners from an estimated 30 schools will compete in the three mile run over Orange Coast's track. The Dons won the meet in 1963.

Scheduled to participate in last week's Aztec Invitational Meet at San Diego State, the Don distance men chose instead to have a hard workout. Coach John Ward explained that they decided to work out because they would run only three miles at San Diego and a hard workout would be more beneficial to the team, which is about to defend its three year-old Eastern Conference Championship.

After facing all seven conference foes in dual meets, Santa Ana has a 6-1 record. The lone loss came at the hands of undefeated Fullerton. The dual meets don't determine the conference champion, but serve as a good indication of how the conference meet will turn out.

This year's Eastern Conference Meet will be run over San Bernardino's 3.8 mile hilly course. Leading the Dons at San Bernardino will be their best hill runner Rich Cayer. Other runners include Sal Mendoza, Gary Stratton, Bill Delaney, Dennis McMullin, and Make Manell.

Beating The Odds

By JIM BAILEY
El Don Sports Editor

It looked like Dave DeWoody might "cut 'em off at the pass."

The San Bernardino quarterback wasted little time in putting the Indians ahead of Santa Ana in last Saturday's game. He passed his team to the one yard line on three long aeriels, and then boomed into the end zone for the first score of the game. He followed it up with a two-point conversion pass to Leonard Jack.

SAC was down 8-0 in the first quarter and there was little indication that things would perk up. The team was at its worst physical condition of the season; head coach Dick Gorrie had reason to worry that some of the new men might panic.

Still the bruised and patched-up Dons pulled together and rallied to their fifth straight victory, 29-16. They ended by holding a dangerous offensive machine to a minus two yards rushing.

Yes, Fullerton deserves to be favored tonight to defeat Santa Ana, and thereby take a giant step to the Eastern Conference Crown, but how can you bet against a team that makes a habit of beating the odds?
